

Study aims

This module will last for 30 lessons.

There may be a question in the examination which asks you to analyse and to write about a drama programme.

Aims of lessons	You should understand that drama is very important on television and film as people enjoy story telling. You should understand that producers have techniques which they can use to tell stories in an interesting way. You should be able to write about the techniques used in drama programmes to make them exciting and to tell good stories.
Key Words to learn and to use	Target audience Character Sets and mise-en-scene, Relationships Series and serials Adaptations
Summary questions	What is drama? What types of drama are there? How do we learn about characters? How does drama create an image of the world? Why do we watch drama programmes? How are dramas created?
Development Work for Assessment	Research people's tastes and ask which drama programmes they enjoy and why. Design a plot for a new and exciting drama series. Invent characters and relationships Write about a favourite drama series which you watch and explain how it is made and what the characters are like.